

Finding HR Journals in the AU Library

Scholarly and professional journals are a great source of human resource management information. Here's how you can browse all our HRM periodicals:

Step 1: Select the Journal Titles tab located on the bottom of the FindIt@AU search box. Type in human resource management and hit the Search button.

Step 2: Once in your search results page, find the Resource Type limiter on the left side of the page, and select journal.

Step 3: To access the journal you want, click on the Full Text Access link.

Step 4: You will see a link or links to one or more of the AU library databases that have this journal. Note the date range next to the links. This can be helpful when choosing which database to use.

Step 5: This may look a little different depending on which database you use, but you will have the option to browse by date or to search within the publication.
